SUMMARY OF INFORMATION

SG1A

SG1A

As of this date, the [] is still carrying contraband in the form of illegal drugs. The drugs are located in the front portion of the vessel behind sliding doors and apparently intermingled among someone's personal effects. The drugs were described as being associated with "little white balls" packaged in a white styrofoam backing. The container bears or is associated with the name "Abraham" (phonetic) and bears an Alpha/Numeric series of 13 to 15 digits printed in small blue characters. The first three digits were described as letters followed by a series of numbers with a predominance of the number two and zero. A brown clothes carrier case appears involved in the effort to unload the contraband inconspicuously.

Current ports of call were indicated as Boston, MA, Salem, MA, Newbury Port, MA, Portsmouth, NH, and Portland, ME. The "drop" is most likely to take place in either Portsmouth or Portland.
